Gerflor resilient flooring has helped architects and designers to achieve a healing, non-institutionalised environment at the new Olivia Newton-John Cancer & Wellness Centre. The ONJCWC is dedicated to providing a range of specialist cancer services, including cancer treatment, education, training and research. Senior Associate with MSJ Architects, John Zadro said the interior design of the ONJCWC aims to emphasise patient focus, respect and dignity.

"The Gerflor Nera Wood was able to bring the natural palette into the clinical areas and complement the overall feel of the building. The Austin hospital cleaning regime would not be compromised with the vinyl floor and coved skirting. Gerflor Metallica was chosen for the skirting to emphasize the timber look of the floor and bring a fresh, natural look to the timber edge," Mr Zadro said.
